SoftSimplastic Foley Catheters
The ideal solution for postoperative use

The Ideal Solution for Postoperative Use

Teleflex, through the Rüsç product line, is a proud pioneer in urology. Whatever product you choose, you choose more than a century of know-how and high-quality patient care while remaining cost effective.

Following a surgical intervention, large volumes of liquid, tissue particles and blood clots need to be washed out. A high drainage and irrigation capacity and high resistance to collapse are critical requirements a postoperative catheter has to meet.

The Rüsç SoftSimplastic Foley range has been developed to answer these needs.

Ideal Drainage Performance

Specially developed for postoperative application, the Rüsç SoftSimplastic Foley range from Teleflex is made of a strong yet soft PVC compound allowing for a favourable ratio between inner and outer diameter.

High flow rates despite small outer diameters are the result. The PVC remains stable despite reduced wall thickness even during aspiration of blood clots and resected tissue.

Ease of Handling and High Patient Comfort

Remaining firm at room temperature, the SoftSimplastic catheter can be safely and easily inserted. Patient comfort during wear is enhanced thanks to the fact, that the material softens at body temperature and adapts optimally to the patient's anatomy.
